

정영현 Corca 대표

The lecturer today talked about his life, mostly about what he did before he became the CEO of his AI startup called Corca. He further talked about what it takes to become a CEO. He believes that upon entering a business or company, you must first see whether or not the CEO or the leader of the group is a fraud. Also, having wonderful subordinates are also crucial.

As the CEO of his startup company, he believes that the life of a CEO is very tiring. The CEO must handle tasks he is not willing to do, and his life feels like a slave contract. He believes that without the ability to sleep anywhere at anytime is crucial in becoming a CEO. Other than that, the CEO must also take care of almost every part of the members of the company, how much bonus are they getting, how much vacation they are getting, etc.